ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to express my extreme gratitude to my advisor, Associate Professor Dr. Udom Boonayathap, the Head of Department of Physiology, for his constant supervision, guidance and encouragement throughout the period of my graduate study.

I am very deeply grateful to my co-advisor, Assistant Professor Dr. Chuchee Praputpittaya for his helpful advice, comments, continuous encouragement and suggestions. This thesis could not have been accomplished without his understanding and gracious assistance.

I am also deeply grateful to Dr. Anchalee Pongchaidecha and Associate Professor Dr. Amphawan Apisariyakul, my thesis committee, for their valuable comments, suggestions and corrections of this thesis.

Special thanks to Mr. Sombat Matayabun, the scientist of Endocrinology Unit, Department of Medicine, Faculty of Medicine, for his kindness and helpful advice.

Sincerely thankful to all members in the Department of Physiology, Faculty of Medicine, Chiang Mai University for their kindness and co-operation.

I especially wish to express my heartfelt thanks to my parents and family for their love, kindness, support and encouragement throughout my life.

Finally, I am deeply indebted to my Lord, Jesus Christ, who gives me all and be with me all the way.
