

INDUCED POLARIZATION CHARACTERISTICS OF
SULPHIDE GRAPHITE AND CLAY MINERALS
IN NORTHERN THAILAND

PRASAN SEESAMRURNG

A THESIS SUBMITTED TO THE GRADUATE SCHOOL
IN PARTIAL FULFILLMENT OF THE REQUIREMENTS
FOR THE DEGREE OF MASTER OF SCIENCE IN APPLIED GEOPHYSICS

GRADUATE SCHOOL
CHIANG MAI UNIVERSITY

MAY 1996

INDUCED POLARIZATION CHARACTERISTICS OF
SULPHIDE GRAPHITE AND CLAY MINERALS
IN NORTHERN THAILAND

PRASAN SEESAMRURNG

EXAMINING COMMITTEE

.....CHAIRMAN

Assistant Professor Dr. Banchob Yotsombat

.....MEMBER

Associate Professor Dr. Pongpor Assanachinda

.....MEMBER

Mr. Adichat Surinkum

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The author would like to acknowledges Ass. Prof. Dr. Banchob Yotsombat and Assoc. Prof. Dr. Pongpor Assanachinda for their help and kindness. Thank also provided to Padaeng Industry (Public) Co.Ltd.

The author would like to thanks Mr. Weera Galong who concedes him join with geophysical survey sector at Uttaradit. He would like to expresses his sincerely indebted to Mr. Adichat Surinkum, his advisor, who let him use geophysical data and give many invaluable constructive comments. Thank also go to Mr. Sydney L. Reab, his instructor, who have firstly edited some part of the manuscript for several time with his kindliness, this is a great appreciation to the author.

Many thanks are also provided to official staff of Ground Follow-Up Survey 1, geophysical survey sector of DMR at Uttaradit. Thanks especially go to Mr. Kachentra Neawsuparp, head of the sector, and Mr. Apichart Paiyarom who gave many valuable ideas and several comments during field session in Uttaradit.

Thanks are also provided to Mr. Jeerapong Songkhom and Mr. Sittidet Hiranamornrakul and all member of Applied Geophysics Program for their help and their friendliness over that time.

Meanwhile, this thesis will not be possible without the financial support from his parent, then, love and moral support from his family are greatly appreciated. Finally, the author would like to expresses his impression to Miss Benjawan Sae-Lao who stands beside him, gave strong motivation and moral support throughout that period of study.