ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am deeply grateful to my thesis supervisor, Dr. Mongkon Rayanakorn, for his excellent supervision, invaluable guidance and constant encouragement throughout the course of this research work.

I wish to give my sincere thanks and appreciation to Assoc. Prof. Dr. Vichitr Rattanaphani, the Head of Department of Chemistry of Chiang Mai University, for providing the opportunity for me to undertake this graduate study.

To the Department of Chemistry and the Department of Geological Sciences, Faculty of Science and the Central Library of Chiang Mai University, I am very much indebted for the provision of excellent research facilities.

Finally, I would like to give my special and profound thanks to my father and mother for their continual encouragement and support.
