

REFERENCES

1. Balza F., Abramowski Z., Tower G.H. N. and Wiriyachitra P.1989. Identification of proanthocyanidin polymers as the piscicidal constituents of Mammea siamensis, Polygonum stagninum and Diospyros diepenhorstii. Phytochemistry, 28(7),1827-1830.
2. Bullerman L.B.1977. Inhibition of growth and aflatoxin production by cinnamon and clove oils. Dept. of Food Science & Technology, 42 (4), 1107-1109.
3. Cleavelly A. 1995. The New Guide to Herbs. London, England. Anness Publishing limited.
4. Erowid. 1999. Calamus [online]. Available: http:// www. erowidOrg/herbs/calamus/calamus.shtm [2000, February 6].
5. Glasby J.S. 1991. Dictionary of Plants Containing Secondary Metabolites. London, England. Taylor & Francis Inc.
6. Hasan H.A.H. and Mahmoud A.L.E. 1993. Inhibitory effect of spice oils on lipase and mycotoxin production. Zentralbl. Microbiol., 148(8), 543-548.
7. Hewitt, H.G. 1998. Fungicide in Crop Protection. UK. CABINTERNATIONAL.
8. Jiyavoranan, T. 2001. Insecticides from Acorus calamus Linn. and Stemonon turberosa Lour. And Their Residues after Application. Master's thesis, Chiang Mai University, Chiang Mai.
9. Koul O., Smirle M.J. and Isman M.B. 1990. Asarone from Acorus calamus L. oil: their effect on feeding behavior and dietary utilization in Peridroma saucia. Chm. Ecol., 16(6), 1911-1920.
10. Matini H., Weidenborner M., Adams S. and Kunz B. 1996. Eugenol and carvacrol : the main fungicidal compounds in clove and savory. Ital. J. Food Sci., 8(1), 63-67.
11. Meena M.R. and Sethi V. 1994. Antimicrobial activity of essential oils from species. J. Food Sci. Technol., 31(1), 68-70.
12. Nawamaki K. and Kuronayaki M. 1996. Sesquiterpenoids from A. calamus as germination inhibitors. Phytochemistry., 43(6), 1175-1182.
13. Patkar K.L., Uhsa C.M., Shetty H.S., Paster N. and Lacey J. 1993. Effect of spice essential

- Oils on growth and aflatoxin B sub (1) production by Aspergillus flavus. Lett. Appl. Microbiol., 17(2), 49-51.
14. Poobrasert O. et al. 1998. Xanthones from the twigs of Mammea siamensis. Phytochemistry., 47(8), 661-663.
  15. Rana B.K., Singh U.P. and Taneja V. 1996. Technical Report: A rapid method for detecting Fungi-toxic substances. World Journal of Microbiology and Biotechnology., 12, 301-302.
  16. Sardud U, Sardud V., Sittigul C. and Chaiwangsri T. 1992. The effect of plant extracts on fruit. ACLAR Project 8844 Workshop Bangkok, p. 21.
  17. Schmidt G.H. and Streloke M. 1994. Effect of Acorus calamus L. oil and its main compound beta-asarone on Prostephanus truncatus. J. Stored. Prod. Res., 30(3), 227-235.
  18. Singh D. and Singh A.K. 1991. Repellent and insecticidal properties of essential oils against housefly, Musca domestica L. Insect. Sci. Appl., 12(4), 487-491.
  19. Salalamp P., Chuakul W., Temfirikul R. and Claypon P. 1980. Medicinal Plants in Thailand. Amarin Printing and Publishing Public Co., Ltd., Bangkok.
  20. Strange N.R. 1993 Plant Disease control. London, England. Chapman&Hall.
  21. Tang W. and Eisenbrand G. 1992. Acorus gramineus Soland. Chinese drug of plant origin. Chemistry, Pharmacology.
  22. Terreaux C., Gupta Mahabir P. and Mostettmann K. 1998. Antifungal benzoic acid derivatives from Piper Dilatatum in honor of professor G.H. Neil Towers 75th birthday. Phytochemistry., 49(2), 461-464.
  23. Todorova M.N., Ognyanov I.V. and S. Shatar. 1995. Chemical composition of essential oil from Mongolian Acorus calamus L. rhizomes. J. Essent. Oil Res., 7(2), 191-193.
  24. Tragoolpua K. 1996. Effect of the extract from eight species of medicinal plant on growth of selected plant pathogenic mold and dermatophytes. Master's thesis Chiang Mai University. Chiang Mai.
  25. Wendorff W.L. and Wee C. 1997. Effect of smoke and spice oils on growth of molds on oil-coated cheeses. J. Food Prot., 60(2), 153-156.
  26. Willson C.L., Solar J.M., El-Ghaouth A. and Wisniewski. 1997. Evaluation of plant extracts and essential oils for antifungal activity against Botrytis cinerea. Plant Dis., 81(2), 204-206.

27. Zheng G.Q., Kenney P.M. and Lam L.K.T. 1992. Sesquiterpenes from clove as potential anticarcinogenic agents. J. of Natural Product., 55(7), 999-1003.

มหาวิทยาลัยเชียงใหม่
Chiang Mai University