ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The accomplishment of this dissertation would not have been possible without assistance and support from numerous persons who have contributed to the dissertation and along my journey in the Ph.D. program. I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to these wonderful persons.

First and foremost, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my dissertation committees. Associate Professor Dr. Linchong Pothiban, my mentor, academic advisor, and dissertation chair has provided me scholarly guidance, invaluable experiences, and support throughout this study. My sincerest gratitude also goes to my committee members, Professor Dr. Margaret F. Dimond, Assistant Professor Dr. Khanokporn Sucamvang, Dr. Sirirat Panuthai, for their time, kindness, insightful encouragement, and guidance. My appreciation is also extended to Associate Professor Dr. Wichit Srisuphan for her intellectual advice throughout this study.

Secondly, I particularly appreciate and thank all 411 participants who participated in this study. Their willingness to share their experience leads to a better understanding of elder abuse problem among Thai older adults residing in Chiang Mai municipality. I also wish to express my appreciation to the heads and health volunteers of eight communities in Chiang Mai municipality for their cooperation and assistance along the data collection process.

A special gratitude is expressed to the contribution of Dr. Karen Schepp, Associate Professor of the University of Washington School of Nursing. Her expertise in instrument development is extremely helpful. I would like to offer my thanks to Associate Professor Dr. Basia Belza for her helpful comments on an earlier version of the study and warm hospitality of my early stay in Seattle. My appreciation also goes to Assistant Professor Aunnop Kunapun for his suggestions during testing the evidence for construct validity.

I would like to thank Professor Sutthichai Jitapunkul and Associate Professor Dr. Siriorn Sindhu for their inspiration to my thought and interest in studying Thai elder abuse.

Thirdly, I am very grateful to Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University for allowing me the time throughout my study program. I would like to thank the Ministry of University Affairs for providing a scholarship throughout my study both in Thailand and in the United States. I am also truly grateful to the Graduate School of Chiang Mai University for providing partial budget for this dissertation.

Furthermore, I wish to express my special thanks to my colleagues, friends, and classmates at Chiang Mai University, Mahidol University, and the University of Washington School of Nursing who are friendly and supportive me along my study. My special thanks also go to Dr Acharaporn Sripusanapun for her encouragement and support on many occasions.

Finally, and most of all, my whole-hearted gratitude is expressed to my beloved mother who passed away before my defense, brothers, especially Worrapirojn Chintanawat, D.D.S., sisters, nieces, and nephews for their unconditional love, continuing encouragement, understanding, and never-ending support that inspired me to complete my Ph.D. study.
