ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The accomplishment of this dissertation would not have been possible without assistance and support from numerous persons who have contributed to my dissertation and along my journey in the Ph.D program. Many individuals have contributed their time and effort toward the completion of the study. I, therefore, realize that my words cannot express all of my gratefulness to these people who have kindly helped me through the dissertation process. I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to these wonderful persons.

Firstly, the success of this dissertation has been attributed to extensive support and kindly assistance from Assistant Professor Dr.Warunee Fongkaew, my mentor, academic advisor, and chair of my dissertation advisory committee. I feel deeply indebted to her excellent assistance, scholarly guidance, invaluable experiences, and support throughout my program study. My deepest gratitude is extended to the committee members, Professor Dr.Marjorie A.Muecke for her time, warm hospitality, and helpful comments on my study in Seattle. I also wish to express Lecturer Dr.Yuwayong Jantarawijit for her kindness, warmth and insightful encouragement as well as Associate Professor Dr.Ratanawadee Chontawan, Associate Professor Dr. Kasara Sripichyakarn and Associate Professor Dr.Rutja Phuphaibul for their invaluable thoughtful suggestions.

Secondly, great appreciation is also offered to all the experts. A special gratitude is expressed to the contribution of Assistant Professor Dr.Prakin Suchaxaya, Dean of Graduate School, Chiang Mai University. Her intellectual advice is extremely helpful. My appreciation also goes to Instructor Supod Sookklad for his expertise in providing fantastic and creative ideas in developing teaching aids and media for the program. I am greatly indebted to my co-researchers (informants) participated in each step of the study who willingly shared their experiences and provided new insights regarding the desired SRH education program for Thai early adolescents. Their participants made the completion for the present study possible. I also wish to express my very special thanks to Mr.Kungwan Fongkaew and Ms.Phurichaya Burinkul who are always friendly and supportive to me along my journey of study.

I would like to acknowledge and sincerely thankful youth leaders from cycle of life, the 10 fourth year nursing students of Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University and 111 younger youth leaders from 10 schools in Chiang Mai province for their superb intention, high responsibility and creation of excellent jobs. I would like to express my thanks to my colleagues, friends, and doctoral classmates for their understandings, nice supports and experience sharing. My deepest gratitude also goes to the Ford Foundation, Youth Family and Community Development Project (YFCD), and the Ministry of University Affairs in providing financial support for my dissertation.

A special gratitude is expressed to Mr. Panthong Soommart, Chief Judge of Chiang Mai Provincial Court, who provides very nice support to my life in Chiang Mai province. I would like to acknowledge Thammasat University and Faculty of Nursing, who allowed me time to study. A lot of thanks go to my colleagues for their support and understanding, especially in Department of Children and Adolescents Nursing.

Finally, and most of all, my whole-hearted gratitude and truly indebted is expressed to my beloved mother who passed away, fathers, especially Mr.Pitch Rutchanagul, my husband, and my children for their unconditional love, understanding, and continuing encouragement throughout my endurance process. Their never-ending love and support inspired me to complete my Ph.D study and make my dream comes true.
