Acknowledgements

I really have great appreciation and very thankful to my advisor, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Narit Sritasuwan, co-advisor, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Araya Jatisatienr, and Lect. Dr. Prontip Chantaramongkol, who gave support to make my study possible, and also very thankful to Lect. Dr. Prasit Wangpakapattanawong and Lect. Dr. Chitchon Phalaraksh, the members of Examining Committee, who gave comments and suggestions.

I am deeply grateful to Dr. Schwann Tunhikon, Deputy Director General of the National Park, Wildlife and Plants Department, for the invaluable guidance, teaching me his experience in wildlife ecology and giving a hospitality and kindness all the time.

I am especially grateful to Dr. Nantiya Ajimasungsri and Dr. Siripen Trichiyaporn, lecturers of Biology Department, Faculty of Science, Chiang-Mai University, who advised several times and pushed me to successfully complete my study.

The man who assisted me in statistical analysis and helped to search for some issues concerned was, Mr. Sawai Wanghongsa, Head of Chacheangsoang Wildlife Research Station. I appreciate his heart-felt help and am thankful for his sincerity.

I would like to give thanks to Mr. Matee Wongnak, a Botanist from Queen Sirikit Botanical Garden, Chiang Mai for identifying some plants in research areas.

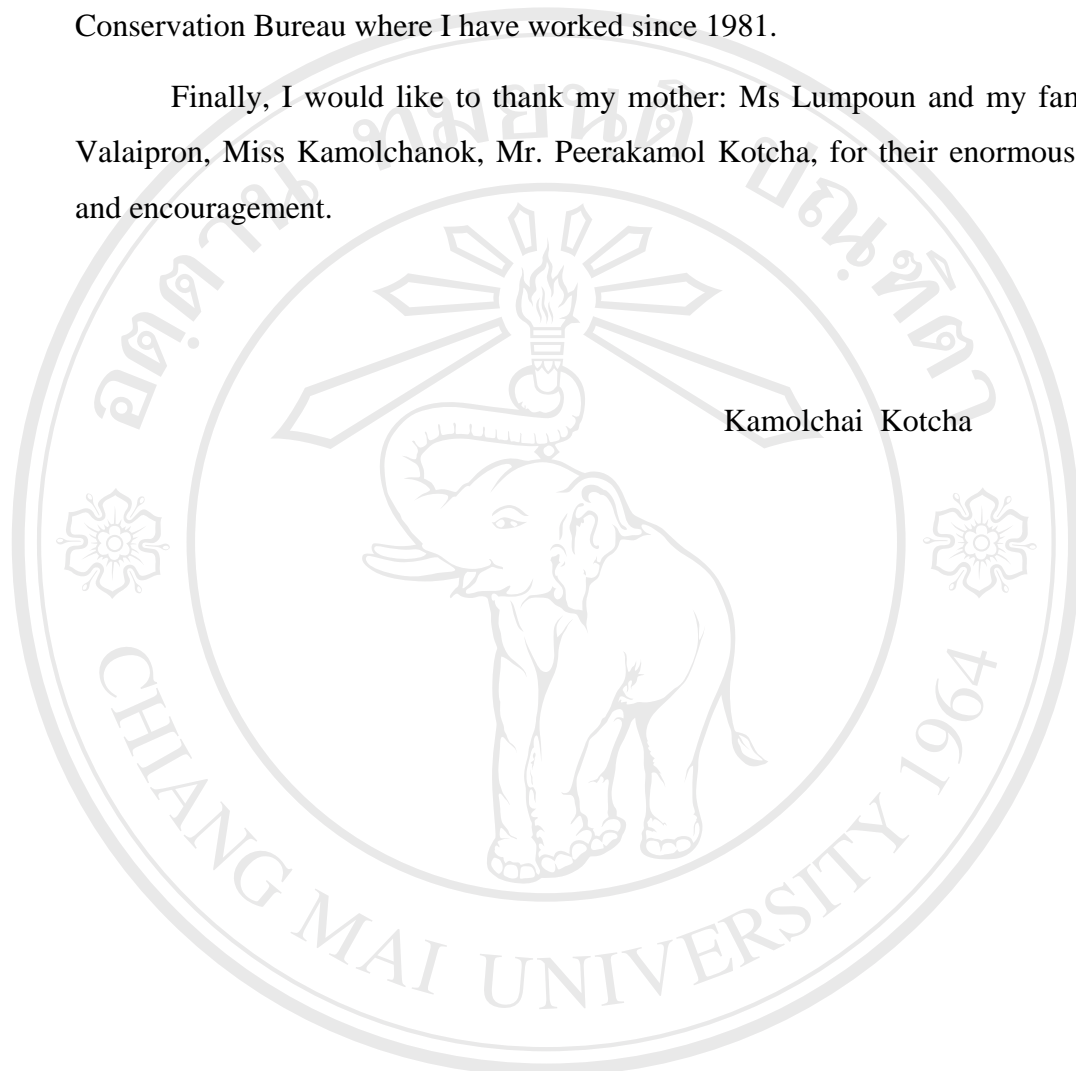

To the officers and rangers of Salween Wildlife Sanctuary, I am very thankful for them taking care of me and being so hard-working during data collection.

Specific thanks to Mr. Adrian Hillman, English Editor of Graduate School of Kasetsart University, Bangkok, Thailand, who edited and corrected the English language in this book.

I have gratefully received the benevolence of National Park, Wildlife and Plants Department (the former Royal Forest Department) especially Wildlife Conservation Bureau where I have worked since 1981.

Finally, I would like to thank my mother: Ms Lumpoun and my family Ms. Valaipron, Miss Kamolchanok, Mr. Peerakamol Kotcha, for their enormous support and encouragement.

Kamolchai Kotcha
