ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The opportunity to study in the doctoral program has been a great experience for me. The process of doing research and completing this thesis was also helpful to develop my personal and academic skills. The accomplishment could not have been completed without the encouragement and support of several key people in my life, so it is with heartfelt gratitude that I wish to acknowledge the following people:

Firstly, I would like to express my gratitude to my advisory committee, Assistant Professor Dr. Prakin Suchaxaya, Professor Dr. Wichit Srisuphan, Associate Professor Dr. Chawapornpun Chanprasit for being my advisors and providing suggestions to conduct this study. Thank you for helping me to explore my ideas and adding precious feedback throughout the completion of the study.

Secondly, I would like to give my special thanks to my colleagues at Department of Public Health Nursing, Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University for allowing me the time to study in this program. I am also grateful to the Graduate School, Chiang Mai University for supporting funds for this study. Special thank to the Ministry of University Affairs for providing a scholarship for my study in this program including the excellent experience at the University of Alabama at Birmingham, U.S.A.

Thirdly, I would like to express my gratitude to Associate Professor Dr. Marti Rice at School of Nursing, University of Alabama at Birmingham, U.S.A. who was my mentor during the process of developing proposal in other country.

Fourthly, I would like to thank the experts from the Ministry of Education, the Ministry of Public Health, and Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University to valid the instruments in this study. Their beneficial suggestions help me to gather the useful information to complete my study.

Fifthly, thanks to the participants in this study including the directors, teachers, school children, parents, school personnel, community leaders, and health personnel who kindly participate in this study. Their openness in sharing their experiences is greatly appreciated and is the essence of this study.

Sixthly, I would like to thank my friends for sharing and encouraging me to pass the process of studying the doctoral program. It was truly the learning process along the first step to be enrolled in this program until the complete of this study. We shared not only the knowledge and experience but also the attachment that happen among people who confront the similar situation. I always remember that friends are important for studying in this program.

Lastly, with love and thank to all of my family members and relatives for your love, support, and encouragement, which are never end.
