ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This independent study can never be completed without assistance from several people whom I owe much appreciation.

First of all, I would like to acknowledge a deep appreciation to my advisor, Dr. Wilailak Saraithong, who has greatly encouraged me and supported me with her diligent guidance and hard work throughout the project. I also wish to extend my sincere appreciation to Dr. Preeya Nokaew, and the committee members Assoc. Prof. Suphanee Jancamai and Asst. Prof. Suwanna Tantayanusorn, who have kindly read and provided useful suggestions for my research. Also to all of my lifetime teachers and professors who have kindly shared your intellectual insights with me, particularly my professors at English Department, Faculty of Humanities, Chiang Mai University who had been a great help in developing my academic ability. I also want to thank Miss Pornpatcharin Phiwong for her great cooperation throughout the process of this independent study.

And I cannot even describe how grateful I feel to my parents, who truly are the ones behind everything. Thank you very much for your tremendous patience, wonderful understanding and most of all, your unconditional love which inspired me to go through this uneasy time. Also to all of my relatives who also have given me strength and courage to finish this work.

I am indebted to all of my friends and classmates whose encouragement and support have made this research possible. A special thanks to P Rung, Bee, Oong-Unn, Buddy O, Nong Or, Jane, Aoo, and Poy: these are friends indeed who have always stood by me with their incredible support, including my little dog Gusto, a playful mate who never stops listening to my problems.

I would like to thank Mr. Paul Michelet, Mr. Max Davenport, and Matthew, friends who play crucial role in this writing. Thank you for your skillful editing and recommendations.

Thank you Women Study Center Chiang Mai, a place where I can always find useful answers to this research, also a big thank to Faculty of Humanities library and Chiang Mai University library for good sources of information.

I sincerely appreciate YMCA Language School for providing an opportunity to work as a part-time English teacher during my period of study, where I could gain a lot of experience in teaching and chances to meet good colleagues and nice students.

And lastly, I would like to express my endless appreciation for my friends in the night market, who over the years have opened my eyes to other side of the mirror. You are my inspiration in this research and as a friend, I wish this research provides some answers to society regarding gender and human equality in Thailand.
