ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my profound thanks and deepest gratitude to Associate Professor Dr. Darawan Thapinta, my academic advisor and dissertation chair, for her valuable guidance, sincere encouragement, professional advice, and personal concern, which she so generously provided to me throughout my graduate experience. Very special thanks to Phramaha Dr. Boonchuay Sirindharo, my co-advisor, for his insightful critique, helpful guidance, and kind assistance in shaping my dissertation. Moreover, I would like to express my grateful thanks to co-advisor, Professor Dr. Robert L. Anders from the University of Texas at El Paso, USA, for his ready assistance, professional guidance and constructive comments

My gratefulness is extended to my examining committee members, Associate Professor Dr. Warunee Fongkaew, Associate Professor Dr. Linchong Pothiban, and Professor Emeritus Dr. Chamlong Disayavanish, who shared their professional comments and thoughtful recommendations to strengthen my dissertation. I truly appreciate the assistance given by all my instructors who provided me valuable knowledge since I was young and especially in the doctoral program at Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University.

My deepest thanks to Dr. Petsunee Thunkjareankul and Jakkapob Dhatsuwan for their expertise and invaluable suggestions in data analysis. I also wish to give special thanks to Prakru Pauwana Wirat, Professor Emeritus Dr. Chamlong Disayavanish, Assistant Professor Dr. Saichai Puapan, Assistant Professor Dr. Sombat Tapunya, Ms. Rotjarek I. Sakamoto, my panel of experts for clarification and suggestions regarding the instruments. I would like to thank Associate Professor Mukda Sriyong for the permission to use her instrument.

My sincere thanks go to all the elderly with depression who inspired me to create and conduct the intervention program, as well as participating in this study, which empowered me through my study. My deeply thankfulness is extended to Ms. Jurairat Kitsauvapak, a research assistance, for her kind help and support all time.

Special thanks go to the Commission on Higher Education, which provided the scholarship for my study. My gratitude is extended to The Thai Health Promotion Foundation for providing financial support for working on my dissertation. In addition, I wish to give grateful thanks to Chiang Mai University and the Faculty of Nursing. My sincerely thanks go to the President, the Dean and my colleagues for their support and allowing me to go on study leave. I also wish to give my special thanks to all doctoral classmates for the wonderful friendships, kind help and mental support during studies.

Deepest appreciation to my loving parents who always give me untiring love, moral support, incessant inspiration and refreshment in my heart all time.
