ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My M.A. study finally completes with the finish of this thesis. On such an occasion, I would like to express my sincere and heartfelt gratitude to all kind people and organizations in both Thailand and China that provide me enormous support and help in my first journey of studying abroad.

First of all, my greatest respect and appreciation go to Dr. Santita Ganjanapan, who is my academic supervisor and the chairperson of my thesis examination committee, for her kind and patient discussions with me that help me developing my topic, for her constructive comments, for her effort in reading and correcting my drafts, and for her extensive help to improve my English academic writing skill. In addition, I express my sincere thanks and appreciation to Dr. Yos Santasombat, who is my committee member, for his valuable comments and suggestions in developing and finishing my thesis. Special thanks also go to Lecturer Suriya Smutkupt for accepting to be my external examiner and valuable comments.

I owe a debt of profound gratitude to Dr. Anan Ganjanapan and Dr. Chayan Vaddhanaphuti, for their kindly sharing creative suggestions and constructive points of view with me in the whole process of study and developing academic ideas, and for all of the good literatures they recommended for improving my understanding about my thesis topic.

A special word of thanks must go to Dr. Ronald Duane Renard, who made me get to know about RCSD and its critical researches in Great Mekong region, and Professor Zhang Kaining, for their kindly recommending me to pursue M.A. degree here.

Genuine gratitude and deep appreciation go to Professor Qiao Hengrui, my director of sociology institute, Yunnan Academy of Social Sciences (YASS), for his encouragement and various supports to my graduate study and field research. I owe a great debt of thanks to Ms. Li Songfeng, my dear friend, for numerous forms of help to deal with my work affairs in YASS during my study abroad.

I also wish to record here my special thanks and appreciation to Du Yunchuan, the family of Zhang Chengji, Li Xiaolong, Mao Jinshu, Zhang Lie, Zhang Liyong, who are villagers in my field sites, for their kindly accepting me and helping to collect data.

I express my extreme gratitude to RCSD, not only for the scholarship it provides to allow for my graduate study abroad and the completion of my thesis possible, but also for guiding me into a critical academic environment. Sociology Institute, Yunnan Academy of Social Sciences (YASS) gave me many supports and assistances during my graduate study and my field research, and I am greatly indebted to them.

All staff in RCSD is so kind that gave me numerous forms of help to deal with affairs during my study, and I owe them great thanks. Furthermore, a special thanks and genuine appreciation must go to Ms. Muttika (Pong), who especially shows great kindness in helping me deal with my proposal procedure during my field trip in China. Special thanks also go to Paiboon (Pee Heng) and Kanokporn (Pee Oy) for their friendly care and helps of both my life and research. In particular, a special word of thanks goes to David, for his hard and nice work of editing my thesis. Other friends, both international and Chinese, who also provided much help to me during study but whom I may failed to mention here by name for limited space, will be held in my heart with sincere gratitude and appreciation.

Finally, I would like to thank my family, as well as my lover Yong. Without their selfless support and profound love, my study will not be able to finish. This study is dedicated to them with my heartfelt and deepest love.
