ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all, I would like to express my sincere gratitude and deep appreciation to Prof. Dr. Saisamorn Lumyong, my major advisor at the Department of Biology, Faculty of Science, Chiang Mai University for her excellent supervision, valuable suggestions and encouragement that have been given to me throughout this research. Her teaching and guidance have helped me to accomplish my professional goals.

I also would like to express special gratitude and respect to Assoc. Prof. Dr. Griangsak Chairrote, Asst. Prof. Dr. Hataichanoke Niamsup, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Suganya Wongpornchai and Asst. Prof. Dr. Lalida Shank at the Department of Chemistry, Faculty of Science, Chiang Mai University who gave an excellent advice, suggestion on the technique of HPLC, GC-MS and LC-MS as well as other complicated methods. Their valuable time and effort spent on proof-reading of this thesis are also appreciated.

I am grateful to Lect. Dr. Chartchai Khanongnuch of the Department of Biotechnology, Faculty of Agro-Industry, Chiang Mai University and Asst. Prof. Dr. Ekachai Chukeatirote at Mae Fah Luang University for insight the suggestion and for thesis editing.

I would like to express my appreciation to the Faculty of Science, Chiang Mai University, for providing all facilities and materials for this research work. Special thanks are extended to the Graduate School of Chiang Mai University and Rajamangala University of Technology Lanna for partial of financial support. I would like to thank Dr. Itthayakorn Promputtha who taught me about surface sterilization technique, Dr. Boonsom Bussaban for taking the photographs of M. purpureus, and Mr. Pisan Kitsawatpaiboon, the specialist of analytical instrumentation, for the operation of GC-MS and LC-MS.

Finally, I warmly thank my family for their support and encouragement throughout the time of my study, especially during the critical period of this work. I am indebted to my beloved family from my first day to this achievement.

There are many other people whose names have not been mentioned such as my colleagues from every institute in which I did my study and work whom I would like to thank all of them.
