ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my great pleasure to write a few words at the completion of this thesis thanking all those who have helped me during my studies at Chiang Mai University. I would first like to thank the Regional Center for Social Science and Sustainable Development (RCSD), for granting me a scholarship and allowing me to pursue my Master's degree at Chiang Mai University. In addition, I must gratefully acknowledge the financial support given by The Graduate School for publishing an article in the International Academic Journal of Asian Social Science (Vol.8, No.5, 2012) entitled 'Poverty Reduction Strategies in an Ethnic Minority Community: Multiple Definitions of Poverty among Khmer Villagers in the Mekong Delta, Vietnam'.

I would like to express my deepest thanks and profound appreciation to my supervisor, Professor Dr. Yos Santasombat, for his critical suggestions, valuable comments and guidance on my research, plus Dr. Kwanchewan Buadaeng, my second advisor, for giving me valuable suggestions and comments in preparation for my fieldwork and thesis writing. I must also thank Mr. Suriya Smutkupt, my external examiner, who was patient when carefully reading my work, and when giving me helpful insights and suggestions on my thesis. I cannot thank enough my mentor, Dr. Patrick Daly and the other professors at the Asia Research Institute of National University of Singapore for their support and enthusiasm regarding my research concerns during the 2.5 months I spent on my Asian Graduate Fellowship.

I would also like to extend my greatest respect and appreciation to the professors at RCSD, Chiang Mai University - to Professor Dr. Anan Ganjanapan, Dr. Chayan Vaddhanaphuti, Assistant Professor Dr. Chusak Wittayapak, Dr. Santita Ganjanapan, Associate Professor Dr. Jamaree Chiengthong, Dr. Pinkeaw Laungaramsri, Dr. Wasan Panyagaew, Ajarn Phrek Gypmantarisi and Ajarn Ekamon Gypmantasiri for their useful lectures and advice in the fields of anthropology and sociology. Also, I should thank the staff in the RCSD office, and in particular Ms. Mutika Thungsuphuti, for their support and friendly responses to my queries.

I owe a great deal to all the villagers of Le Tri commune, for their kindness and generosity, for providing me with invaluable local perspectives related to my research. For helping me during my fieldwork, I must also thank the local authorities at my research site, who provided me with relevant documents and shared their excellent thoughts with me.

I would also like to take this opportunity to express my deepest gratitude to Mr. Tran Thanh Binh, my employer, and all my colleagues of the Research Center for Rural Development (RCRD) at An Giang University, for sharing my workload and letting me concentrate on my studies. As well, thanks and love to all of my international classmates and Vietnamese friends, who shared their feelings, experiences and knowledge with me at Chiang Mai University.

I save my last words of wholehearted gratitude for my parents and my younger brother, for all their love, sacrifices and encouragement during my studies, that motivated me to complete my time at Chiang Mai University.
