ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis would not have been possible without the support of many individuals. First of all, I express my sincerest gratitude to my thesis supervisor, Dr. Kwanchewan Buadaeng. Dr. Kwanchewan always offered me invaluable assistance, support, and guidance throughout the research and writing process while allowing me enough freedom to work in my own style. I attribute the achievement of my Masters degree to her encouragement and guidance. Without her assistance this thesis would have never materialized. I also offer my deepest gratitude to Dr. Panadda Boonyasaranai, my second advisor, for her assistance throughout various stages of the research and writing process. I am further grateful to Dr. Paul Cohen, my external examiner, and Dr. Mukdawan Sakboon, my thesis proposal examiner, both of whom sacrificed their valuable time and energy to offer insightful comments for revising my thesis.

I also thank the Regional Center for Social Science and Sustainable Development (RCSD) for granting the funds which covered my tuition fees during the 2011 academic year. I express my sincere appreciation to Dr. Chayan Vaddhanaphuti, Dr. Anan Ganjanapan, Dr. Chusak Wittayapak, Dr. Yos Santasombat, Dr. Pinkaew Laungaramsri, Dr. Jamaree Chiengthong, Dr. Wasan Panyagaew, and Dr. Amporn Jirattikorn for their intellectual guidance, encouragement, and support throughout my masters program. Additionally, I am deeply indebted to all of the staff members at RCSD, particularly Ms. Muttika Thunsuphuti, for their time and support in dealing with so many crucial administrative matters.

My deepest thanks go to the Akha community of Arbawr village, without whom this study could have never been completed. I express my deepest gratitude to the Neo-Traditionalist elders and ritual specialists of Arbawr village who warmly welcomed me into their community and taught as well as showed me a great deal about the rich and beautiful nature of our traditional Akha culture. In addition, I express a special thanks to my Akha friends in Thailand for their constant support kindness, and encouragement throughout my studies. I am also grateful to all my fellow RCSD classmates - Alounyang Yongye, Kongkham Keoounvong, Kyawzian Aung Soe, Dinh Thu Thuy, Khin Moe Kyi, Latdavone Khamphouvong, Mi Mi Cho, Mrinalini Rai, Nang Moon Hseng Hom, Souksamone Sengchang, Theavy Chhorn – whom greatly enriched my life here in Chiang Mai both within and beyond the classroom.

Finally, I express a deep love and gratitude to my family. This thesis has really only been possible due to the unconditional love and support of my family in Xishuangbanna, China. I am sincerely grateful to my parents, brothers, and sister for always supporting me in my desire to study. I also express my heartfelt gratitude to my uncle Aryoeq and aunt Miqjur, both of whom have provided me with constant love, care, and encouragement throughout my studies. Last, I am deeply grateful to my husband, Micah Morton, for his constant support and encouragement throughout each phase of my studies.
