ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all, it would not have been possible to write this master thesis without the help and support of the kind people around me, to only some of whom it is possible to give particular mention here. Above all, this thesis would not have been possible without the help, support and patience of my supervisor, Dr. ChayanVaddhanaphuti, for his great guidance, valuable comments and suggestions from preparing the thesis proposal until the final thesis completion with kindness and patience. I would also like to express my sincere appreciation to my exam committee and co-advisor Assoc. Prof. Dr. Wattana Sugunnasil and Lec. Mr. Ekamol Saichan (Thesis proposal exam committee). The good advice, support and friendship of my external examiner, Dr. Jennifer Leehey, has been invaluable on both an academic and a personal level, for which I am extremely grateful. I would also express gratefully thank to Dr. Gary Suwannarat, RCSD Board of Trustees member for her precious comments and suggestions.

I would like to acknowledge the academic and technical support of the Regional Center for Social Science and Sustainable Development (RCSD) Program, Faculty of Social Sciences, Chiang Mai University and its staff, especially to Ms. Muttika Thungsuphuti (Pong), Academic Support Officer, for her kindness, friendship and support.

I would not have been able to study without financial support from the Heinrich Boll Foundation, an NGO from Germany. I would like to simply and deeply give thanks to the Director and Program Officer from the Heinrich Boll Foundation office in Bangkok and Yangon and also all of the other staff from that office.

I must also show my appreciation in a deep sense to the villagers in the community of Tha-Gyar-Hin-O village and the staff from local as well as international organizations for their kind cooperation in providing me with valuable and relevant information needed for this study. I also wish to express my thanks to Hlaing Hlaing, Shew Yi and Yan Naing whose accompanied me and helped me during my field trip to the delta.

Special thanks to my fellow classmates and friends from the RCSD program for the stimulating discussions, for the sleepless nights we were working together before deadlines, and for all the fun we have had in the school years. Also my deepest thanks go to my friends from Myanmar: Thet Aung Lynn, Chit Chaw, Phyu Phyu That, Kyi Kyi San and Aye Mya Khine for their support and encouragement. I must express my sincerest thanks to my friend Marisa Charles, for both her encouragement and editing of my final work. I would like to show my greatest appreciation to my cousins, Pe Aung Zin and Fanny Rockman for their kind help and taking care of my mother and father on behalf of me while I was away from Myanmar for my study. They were all very kind and shared both my happiness and my sorrows.

I owe a very important debt to my Sayar, Dr. Nay Win Maung who morally encouraged and helped me to overcome significant barriers to start my studies in Social Sciences. Last but not the least, I would like to thank my family - my parents U Win Shwe and Daw Than Win, for giving birth to me in the first place and supporting me spiritually throughout my life.
