ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I owe a lot of people thanks who helped me through my journey of studying in the Regional Centre for Social Sciences and Sustainable Development (RCSD) at Chiang Mai University. Firstly, I would like to express special thanks to my thesis adviser Dr. Wasan Panyagaew for his kindness and supervision throughout the process of research and thesis writing. Without his trust and guidance, I would not have been able to successfully accomplish my studies. And I want to say thanks to Dr. Chayan Vaddhanaphuti and Dr. Jennifer Leehay for carefully guiding me and sharing their knowledge necessary for my research.

It would not have been possible for me to come and study in Chiang Mai without the generous support funding of the Heinrich Boell Foundation (HBF), Southeast Asia Branch in Bangkok. I would like to express thanks to Mr. Jost Pachaly and Mr. Rainer Einzenberger for their warm kindness and support and also to the office members of HBF. In addition, I always noted the kindness and help of P'Pong (Muttika Thungsuphuti) and other staff from the RCSD office whenever I was in need of help during my studies. And let me say thanks again to all of my classmates for sharing, learning and enjoying in the great time we had together during this process.

My thanks also go to my parents and brother, who loved, trusted and supported me for everything needed. And I would like to say special thanks to Ms. Nwet Kay Khine for her consideration and encouragement since the beginning of this study. And I will never forget to express thank you to those who I will always remember, especially my grandmother.

I owe my largest debt to the people from my research site who contributed whatever I wanted to know and without their kindness, generosity, and tolerance; my research would not have been successfully accomplished. To them, I would like to express my sincerest gratitude and thanks.
