ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to express my appreciation to many people and organizations whose constant encouragement supported me in the completion of this learning journey in the Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University.

First of all, I would like to express my greatest thanks and high regard to my major advisor-Assistant Professor Dr. Petsunee Thungjaroenkul-for her continuous scholarly guidance, extraordinary support, and encouragement throughout my study. Besides my advisor, I am deeply thankful to my co-advisor-Lecturer Dr. Treeyaphan Supamanee-for her valuable comments and constant support. My success in completing this thesis would not have been possible without their help.

I am especially grateful for the direction and suggestions of the members of my thesis examining committee: Assistant Professor Dr. Waraporn Boonchieng, Assistant Professor Dr. Petsunee Thungjaroenkul, Lecturer Dr. Treeyaphan Supamanee, Assistant Professor Dr. Usanee Jintrawet, and Lecturer Dr. Jitnatee Ritchie.

Furthermore, I sincerely thank Assistant Professor Dr. Thitinut Akkadechanunt for being my academic advisor and supporting me from the beginning of my program. I would like to give many thanks and respect to all the teachers at the Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University, for giving me a depth of knowledge, guidance and encouragement in my study. I would like to thank all the staff in the International Relations Unit and Graduate Unit for their assistance during these two years. I would like to express my great thanks to the Graduate School for granting research funds as well.

I greatly appreciate many experts: Dr. Hsiu-Chin Chen and Dr. Rick Guzzo for their academic support and permissions of using instruments, Mrs. Dong Pang and Mrs. Marisa Guptarak for doing the back-translation of the instrument, and Mr. Manop Silalert for translating my abstract in Thai. In addition, I would like to offer my great acknowledgement for support during data collection to the directors of the nursing departments in each hospital: Mrs. Zhou Wenqin in Longhua Hospital, Mrs. Zhang Yali in Shuguang Hospital, Mrs. Zhou Jie in Shanghai Hospital of Traditional Chinese Medicine, and Mrs. Lu Jingbo in Yueyang Hospital. Also, I would like to offer my thanks to the coordinators for their cooperation, which helped me smoothly complete my research.

I am sincerely and deeply grateful to Longhua Hospital for their support and giving me a wonderful chance to study in Chiang Mai University. A special appreciation goes to Mrs. Zhou Wenqin, the director of the nursing department of Longhua Hospital, for her encouragement.

I would like to give sincere thanks to my senior students and my classmates in the nursing administration program who come from many different countries-Myanmar, Tanzania, Mongolia, Malawi, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh, Fiji, and Vietnam-for making my study life wonderful.

Finally, I am especially grateful to my family throughout the entire duration of my study. In particular, I acknowledge my parents for their love, motivation, encouragement, and assistance. Without their support, I would not have succeeded in this study.
