ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My utmost and sincere appreciation must go to my academic supervisor and thesis advisor, Dr. Amporn Jirattikorn, for her help and support during all stages of the thesis writing process. I would also like to thank her for being open to ideas, and for encouraging and helping me to shape my interests and thoughts.

I would also like to express my gratitude and respect to Dr. Chayan Vaddhanaphuti - as my thesis co-advisor, Prof. Anan Ganjanapan, Dr. Chusak Wittayapak, Dr. Mukdawan Sakboon, Dr. Prasit Leepreecha and Dr. Wasan Panyagaew, whose advice and insights were invaluable for me. I learned much from them during my MA course and our interesting discussions.

My sincere thanks should also go to Dr. Pujo Semedi, Prof. Rodolphe de Koninck, Prof. Philip Taylor, Prof. Victor T King, Dr. Kay Mohlman and Dr. Tan Joo Ean for their encouragement, inspiring discussions and insightful comments.

In addition, I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to RCSD and the Faculty of Social Sciences at Chiang Mai University, for providing me with a full master's scholarship, and the Graduate School, also at Chiang Mai University, for awarding me a research grant so I could complete the course.

I am also obliged to various staff members at RCSD and Chiang Mai University, and in particular Ms. Muttika Thungsuphuti (Pi. Pong) for the valuable information and assistance she provided during my early application process and at all stages of my studies. I must also give my appreciation to Gary Morrison, for his helpful contribution editing this thesis.

My field study work faced fewer obstacles due to the key inputs of certain individuals. I should thank Halim for acting as my interpreter and research assistant, and Abdullah for his kindness in adopting me as his brother. I would also like to thank the research participants; the Burmese Muslims in Mae Sot who willingly shared their precious time and experiences with me during our interviews.

I also thank my fellow classmates - who I cannot mention one by one - for the very fun and lively classes held during the MA course; I thank them for the stimulating discussions we had together, and their personal and scholarly interactions, plus suggestions at various points during my course. I would also thank all my friends at Chiang Mai University for their kindness, help and assistance.

I owe a lot to my family, who have encouraged and helped me at every stage during my personal and academic life, and longed to see this achievement come to fruition. Words cannot express how grateful I am to my mother, Ms. Mei Astuti, and my two brothers Nurhadi Tedjo Prabowo and Hermawan Andrianto, for all the sacrifices they made on my behalf.

A special thanks to my beloved one, Hesti Aryani, who has supported me throughout the entire process and helped me put the pieces together. She always supported me at key moments, when there was no one else to answer my queries. I will be grateful forever for her love.
