ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This is a tremendous achievement; I alone wouldn't have been able to do this. With strong guidance, support, patience and good in nature of significant help and encouragement from many wonderful people surrounding me, this thesis has been compiled smoothly as the way it is now.

First and foremost, my deepest gratitude would go to my incredible supportive chairman, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Komsan Suriya, who provides me with endless support on the flow of the work from the beginning until this whole completed thesis. His instruction, motivation, and intellectual economics have boosted me up to achieve this work. Secondly, I would like to thank co-advisor Lect. Dr. Napat Harnpornchai who has given me courage and useful advice from the time of defending my proposal until the completion of my thesis in this inspiring academic field. Additionally, I would like to express my wholehearted gratitude to Chiang Mai University, Faculty of Economics, lecturers and professors, whom gave me the golden opportunity to be a part of the students here. Financially, I would like to give my strongest appreciation to my sponsor, SCG (Thailand) Co. Ltd, which has provided me stipends for the entire program.

Most importantly, I would like to show my dear appreciation to my parents, brother, and sisters, and friends who unconditionally gave me emotional support. To my special friend, Gary Doyle, who is very supportive, constantly and immensely tolerant to lift me up during my stressful obstacles.
