ACKNOWLEDGMENT

With great sense of gratitude I would like to acknowledge and thank several individuals, without whom this thesis would not have been possible.

First of all, I would like to thank my primary supervisor Dr. Nutjeera Intasai for all the expert guidance, encouragements, and patience and for teaching me the hard work of scientific writing. Her support has enabled me to complete my thesis. I am grateful to acknowledge the help of my co-supervisor, Dr. Khanittha Taneyhill, for her expert advice and tremendous support. She guided me a lot in the every stage of this work. I am also thankful to Dr. Pised Methapatara for kindly helpful classification of patients in Alzheimer's disease and for sharing his experiences of clinical aspects of dementia, and Asst. Prof. Dr. Somporn Sungkarat for helpful coordination with mild cognitive impairment subjects.

In addition, I am always grateful to Assoc. Prof. Dr Songyot Anuchapreeda, Asst. Prof. Dr. Sawitree Chiampanichayakul, and Mr. Singkome Tima, for their kind assistance, invaluable advice, and full support me along the way. I also have to thank the external committee, Dr. Sittiruk Roytrakul for his sharing expertise, investing time and providing interesting, and valuable feedback.

I would like to extend a special gratitude to Miss Keeratiporn Worrasettasing, Miss Saichit Khummuang, Miss Sirinun Boripuntakul and all staffs in Department of Medical technology, Faculty of Associated Medical Sciences, Chiang Mai University, for their kindly suggestion, technical knowledge, demonstration and teaching me reach to the end of my studies. Additionally, special thank all participants for their dedication and the medical staff of Suanprung Psychiatric Hospital for their support and help with collecting blood samples.

I am grateful for the funding sources that allowed me to pursue my graduate school studies at The National Research Council of Thailand. My work was supported by the Department of Medical technology and Biomedical Technology Research Unit, at Faculty of Associated Medical Sciences, Chiang Mai University.

Finally, the biggest thanks are for, my family, my parents, and my friends, for their love, support and encourage me in every possible way from the very beginning to the end.
