ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am grateful and wish to thank to the merciful Allah for providing me opportunity, strength and courage to complete the thesis. The accomplishment of this would not have been possible without the guidance and support from many persons and organizations who contributed to complete the study. I would like to sincerely acknowledge the Directorate of Nursing Services and Ministry of Health & Family Welfare, Bangladesh for giving me the opportunity to study abroad and financial support. I am also thankful to nursing instructor in charge, and all my colleagues of Chandpur Nursing Institute for their cooperation during my study period.

I express my sincere gratitude to my major advisor, Assistant Professor Dr. Usanee Jintrawet who had provided endless support and remarkable kindness from the beginning until completion of my thesis. I am deeply grateful to my co- advisor, Assistant Professor Dr. Acharaporn Sripusanapan for her consult support and valuable suggestions. Without their efforts, my success in completing this study would not have happened.

I would like to a special express my gratitude to the member of my thesis examining committee for their obvious directions and precious suggestion.

I would like thank all my teachers in Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University for imparting knowledge which guided me to gain a broader understanding regarding maternal and child health nursing and about other related fields. I also offer particular thanks to the Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University for the support provided during my study on the master's program.

I am grateful to all the primiparous pregnant women who participated in this study and special go to the hospital Director, and Nursing Superintendent, for their cooperation and support. I am grateful all to my friends from Malaysia, Nepal, and Bangladesh for their cordial co-operation. The data collection for this research would not have been possible without the co-operation and assistance of many people. I would like to express my sincere appreciation to Comilla Medical College hospital administrators for facilitating the data collection.

Lastly of all, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to my mother, for providing their encouragement and support throughout the course of the study also brothers and sisters, I want to express my special appreciation to my husband. I will also loving my daughter and son who gives me motivation, encouragement and emotional support in every moment to complete the course.

All of these people have been a valuable support of my study, and I will be forever grateful to them.
