ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I have an honor to reflect my sincere appreciation to many people who have supported me, guided me and helped me on everything within long journey of thesis period.

I would like first to express my sincere thankfulness to Dr. Pisit Leeahtam, the Dean of Faculty of Economics, Chiang Mai University; Dr. Thida Kyu, the Dean of Faculty of Economics, Yangon University of Economics; and Assoc. Prof. Dr. Kanchana Chokethaworn; for their continuous support in things like financial assistance and delivering excellent lectures to us; and the Bangkok Bank Public Company Limited for providing a financial aid for this international master's degree program at Yangon University of Economics. In addition, I would to express my deepest gratitude to my chairman Dr. Cho Cho Thein, Associate Professor of the Faculty of Applied Economics, Yangon University of Economics, my advisor and mentor, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Kanchana Chokethaworn; and my co-advisor, Assoc. Prof. Dr Prasert Chaitip for their guidance. They really gave their suggestions, advices to choose the right direction and continuous encouragement at critical needed times.

Furthermore, I want to thank wholeheartedly to all friends especially Ms. Ei Phyu Aung, seniors and staff at the Faculty of Economics for their technical assistance, guidance, continuous contributions, sharing their knowledge and finding ways to deliberate our problems during the whole Master Program Period. Last but not least, a special heartfelt thank goes out to my parents U Myo Win and Daw San San Htay; all of my aunts.
