ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

My master thesis would have been impossible without a vast amount of help and support from many individuals and groups. I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all of them.

First of all, I would like to express my sincere appreciation and deepest gratitude to my major advisor, Assistant Professor Dr. Petsunee Thungjaroenkul, for her patient, continuous encouragement and invaluable suggestions for guiding me in all aspects of my study throughout whenever I needed. I always get immediate help and suggestions from her. Likewise, my appreciation also goes to my co-advisor, Lecturer Dr. Bunpitcha Chitpakdee, for her immeasurable encouragement and support.

I hereby acknowledge the members of my thesis examination committee: Assistant Professor Dr. Jutarat Mesukko, Assistant Professor Dr. Usanee Jintrawet, Associate Prof. Dr. Ratanawadee Chontawan, Assistant Professor Dr. Petsunee Thungjaroenkul and Lecturer Dr. Bunpitcha Chitpakdee, for their sincere comments and directions.

Moreover, I am especially grateful to all the teachers and staff in the Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University, for their extraordinary support and help. In addition, I would like to offer sincere thanks to my classmates, for their encouragement and friendship. I am deeply thankful to the Graduate School of Chiang Mai University for granting research funds.

Furthermore, I greatly appreciate experts Dr. Robert C. Liden and Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, for their academic support and permissions of using the research instruments. Additionally, I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to Dr. Li Li and Dr. Liu Xueqin, for their generous sharing of the Chinese version of HSOPSC instrument and Dr. Jia Hu and Dr. Robert C. Liden, for the Chinese version of LMX-MDM instrument. My great gratitude also goes to the directors of nursing departments in selected hospitals for support during data collection: Liang Guixian in the First Affiliate Hospital of Kunming Medical University, Yang Mingying in the Second Affiliate Hospital of Kunming Medical University, Che Meihua in the Forth Affiliated Hospital of Kunming University and Lin Huixian in the Third People's Hospital of Yunnan Province. Likewise, my sincere acknowledgement is extended to the coordinators who helped me in the data collection process and all the nurses who participated in the study.

I greatly acknowledge the Third People's Hospital of Yunnan Province, for providing me precious opportunity and financial support to study in Chiang Mai University. I am especially grateful to Shao Qinghua, the president of the Third People's Hospital of Yunnan Province and Lin Huixian (director of nursing department of the Third People's Hospital of Yunnan Province), Xu Sujia (vice director) and their team, for their kind encouragement, support and help that made me succeed in my studies. Special gratitude is also extended to my department director Hu Hongwen and head nurse Shen Juli, for their motivation and encouragement. In particular, my special thanks goes to Professor Tang Pingfen (former Vice Dean of Nursing School, Kunming Medical University) who provided platform of the exchange program and constantly encouraged me during duration of study.

Finally, I would like to express wholehearted gratitude to my family. I especially appreciate my parents, for their immeasurable motivation and encouragement throughout my study.
