ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This dissertation is accomplished by the great encouragement of Assoc. Prof. Dr. Sirmsree Chaisorn, advisor, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Nithida Adipattaranam and Lect. Dr. Nampueng Intanat, co-advisors. I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to all of them for the tireless attempts to guide, counsel, and assist throughout the path of my doctoral degree.

For the dissertation defense, I would like to thank Asst. Prof. Dr. Wanida Penkingarn, and Assoc. Prof. Dr. Kanjana Keatmaneerat for their time and their constructive comments and suggestions which helped improving and clarifying the dissertation. All comments from examination committee were helpful and could be applied for practical practices and future studies in teaching profession.

In addition, I would like to extend my gratitude to all the executives, lecturers and staff in The Faculty of Liberal Arts, Maejo University for their assistance and supports to facilitate my leave of absence for study and working on this dissertation. For all students enrolled in an English for Agriculture course who were important part of my data collection, I would like to thank all of them for their enthusiastic participation in research activities.

For their encouragement and experience sharing, I would like to thank my Ph.D. program classmates in Curriculum and Instruction class 2011. For the other great support throughout, I would like to thank my Chantalay Family. With their supports and understanding, I could make achievement not only for the Ph.D., but also for my entire life.
