ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to firstly thank Dr. Pisit Leeahtam, the former Dean at faculty of Economics, who initiated this program, Dr. Pairat Kanjanakaroon as the Dean of the faculty, and Bangkok Bank Public Company Limited (BBL) who supported scholarship to this program.

I want to sincerely thank my thesis advisor, Dr. Manoj Potapohn and my co-advisor, Dr. Rossarin Osathanukul, who have supported me kindly and heartily. Dr. Manoj taught me a great deal about my academic field and inculcated in me the spirit of research. He has my admiration, and I am grateful for his generous sharing of his knowledge.

Dr. Carolyn M. Porta (School of Nursing and School of Public Health, University of Minnesota) gave me wonderful advice on research design and writing. I also owe a debt of gratitude to Dr. Piyaluk Buddhawongsa and Dr. Jirakom Sirisrisakulchai for their sound advice about econometrics.

My friends, Nyan Tun, Phyu Phyu Kyaw Myint, Nyein Ei Cho and Lay Nu Aung, helped with the field work and data entry. Special thanks to my beloved parents, siblings, my husband and my son for their kind support, both in this project and in every other aspect of my life. Without them, I could never have accomplished the writing of this thesis.
