ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all those who gave me the possibility to my study and this research. First and foremost, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the Faculty of Economic, Chiang Mai University for providing with this opportunity to undertake this study. I would also like to express deep gratitude to Dr. Pisit Leeahtam who the former dean of Faculty of Economics and also I would like to express my extreme sincere gratitude and appreciation to Dr. Pairat, Dean of Faculty of Economics and all the lecturers from CMU who came and taught us for this Master Course. I wish to extend deep thanks to Yangon University of Economics and Dr. Thida Kyu, Head of Department, Department of economics that give a chance us to joint this program.

My heartfelt appreciation must be given to Asst.Prof Dr. Rossarin Osathanunkul my kind and helpful advisor, for her useful comments, remarks and encouragement. Without her continuous and consistent guidance, this thesis could not be completed in proper way. It is a great pleasure to express my high and special gratitude to my co-advisor, Asst.Prof Dr. Chaiwat Nimanusornkul who had provided the guidance for the econometric analyses. And also, I feel heartfelt appreciation must be given to Assoc.Prof.Dr Venus Rauechai my helpful chairman for her useful comment remarks. Moreover, it is a great pleasure to acknowledge my deepest thanks and gratitude to the Bangkok Bank Public Company Limited(BBL) which support me to attend this valuable program.

Moreover, I offer my deep gratitude and thanks to all the staffs at the Faculty of Economics, CMU, for their help and guidance during my study and thesis completion. And I would like to acknowledge the help, encouragement and insight that I have received from all people who did not mention in this acknowledgement.
