ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Firstly, I praise and Firstly, I praise and thank Almighty God, for his showers of blessings throughout my research which enabled me to complete my research.

Secondly, I would like to say thank to Dr. Asst. Prof. Dr. Prapatchan Jariyapan, the Dean of Faculty of Economics, Chiang Mai University, Thailand. As well, I would like to thank Dr. Thida Kyu, the Dean of Faculty of Economics, Yangon University of Economics, Myanmar for their great effort. The Bangkok Bank Public Company Limited provided financial support and a scholarship for this program.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my thesis supervisor, Prof. Dr. Prasert Chaitip, and our chairman Prof. Dr. Tanarak and co-supervisors, Asst. Prof. Dr. Chukiat Chaiboonsri and Assoc. Prof. Dr. Kanchana Chokethaworn, for their valuable guidance. Your vision, sincerity and motivation have deeply inspired me. It was a great honour to work and study under you.

I am extremely grateful to my Mom and Dad for their love, prayers, caring and sacrifices for my education, and for preparing me for my future. Moreover, I am very thankful to my brothers, my sister and my brother-in-law for their love, support and prayers.

I would like to thank my senior, Ma Ei Phyu Aung, and my friends for their constant encouragement and support. Also, thanks are due to the program coordinator Mr. Thawarat Thongkham and his assistant coordinator, Ms. Jongkolnee Sritiruan at Chiang Mai University. Additionally, I am grateful for the many kindnesses of Peter Kyaw Thinn, program coordinator at the Yangon University of Economics. Finally, I thank all the people who have supported me, either directly or indirectly.
