ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

On this occasion, I would like to express my appreciation to individuals and organizations for the support given to me during my study at Chiang Mai University, Thailand.

I would like to express my appreciation to the First Affiliated Hospital of Dali University for providing me the opportunity to come and study at the Faculty of Nursing Chiang Mai University, Thailand and for giving me the financial support throughout my study. I am also thankful to the nursing department director Mrs. Chen, my quality control department director Mr. Liu and all my colleagues for their help during my study period.

I would like to express my deep and sincere appreciation to my advisor, Professor Dr. Wipada Kunaviktikul, for her support, encouragement, constructive feedback and patience throughout my study. Her scholarly guidance and extraordinary assistance have been of great value for me, which facilitated to develop this thesis. I am also grateful to my co-advisor Assistant Professor Dr. Somjai Sirakamon for her generous support and valuable suggestions. Without their support this study would not have been possible.

I would like to a special express my gratitude to the members of my thesis examining committee for their clear and valuable comments and graduate school CMU for provide support of this thesis.

Moreover, I extend my special appreciation to the Directors of Nursing Department and research coordinators of the two People's hospitals of Dali, for their understanding, support and help during the data collection. I would like to express the all nurses who agreed to participate in this study and for their cooperation and support. The data collection for this study would not have been possible without their cooperation and assistance.

I would like to give my warmest thanks to all my dear classmates from three countries, for their emotional support and wonderful friendship.

Finally, I am profoundly grateful to my family whose unwavering love and trust lifted me up throughout my master study. I acknowledge my parents, for their effort and contribution taking care my daughter with absolutely no regret. I wish to express my thanks to my brother, my sister and other family members for their encouragement, support and prayers during my study in Thailand. Most importantly, I would like to express my heartfelt to my husband, for his unselfish love, emotional and financial support. Profound gratitude also goes to my dear daughter, for her being a good girl while I was studying abroad. Thank you very much for your love and understanding.

The seal of Chiang Mai University is a circular emblem. In the center is an elephant standing and facing left, with a traditional Thai torch (phra phum) on its back. Above the torch are five radiating lines. The outer ring of the seal contains the university's name in Thai script at the top and 'CHIANG MAI UNIVERSITY 1964' in English at the bottom, separated by two floral motifs.
