

Frontiers in International Relations

Joana Castro Pereira
André Saramago Editors

Non-Human Nature in World Politics

Theory and Practice

 Springer

สำนักหอสมุดมหาวิทยาลัยเชียงใหม่

๖ 164842/6
๑ 12494/8
1 22326/5

pbk
5847-

Joana Castro Pereira · André Saramago
Editors

Non-Human Nature in World Politics

Theory and Practice

Contents

Introduction: Embracing Non-Human Nature in World Politics	1
Joana Castro Pereira and André Saramago
Theoretical Investigations
The End of Normal Politics: Assemblages, Non-Humans and International Relations	13
Bob Carter and Oliver J. T. Harris
Across Species and Borders: Political Representation, Ecological Democracy and the Non-Human	33
Anthony Burke and Stefanie Fishel
A Quantum Anthropocene? International Relations Between Rupture and Entanglement	53
Cameron Harrington
Ecologies of Globalization: Mountain Governance and Multinatural Planetary Politics	73
Rafi Youatt
Conflicting Temporalities and the Ecomodernist Vision of Rewilding	91
Rasmus Karlsson
Elias in the Anthropocene: Human Nature, Evolution and the Politics of the Great Acceleration	111
Stephen Quilley

Empirical Investigations

Anthropocentrism and Its Discontents in Indonesia: Indigenous Communities, Non-Human Nature and Anthropocentric Political-Economic Governance	143
Shofwan Al Banna Choiruzzad
Ecological Civilization: The Political Rhetoric of “Marxism with Chinese Characteristics”	163
Justin Heinzekehr
America First: The Trump Effect on Climate Change Policy	179
Sheila D. Collins
Rights of Nature in the European Union: Contemplating the Operationalization of an Eco-Centric Concept in an Anthropocentric Environment?	205
Hendrik Schoukens
The European Union’s Diplomacy: Protecting Non-Human Nature? . . .	235
Simon Schunz, Bram De Botselier, and Sofia López Piqueres
Trust and the WWF in the Arctic	261
Danita Catherine Burke
A Typology of Direct Action at Sea	279
Teale N. Phelps Bondaroff
The IPBES Conceptual Framework: Enhancing the Space for Plurality of Knowledge Systems and Paradigms	311
Lavínia Pereira and Olivia Bina
Concluding Discussion: The Planetary Is Not the End of the International	337
Olaf Corry	