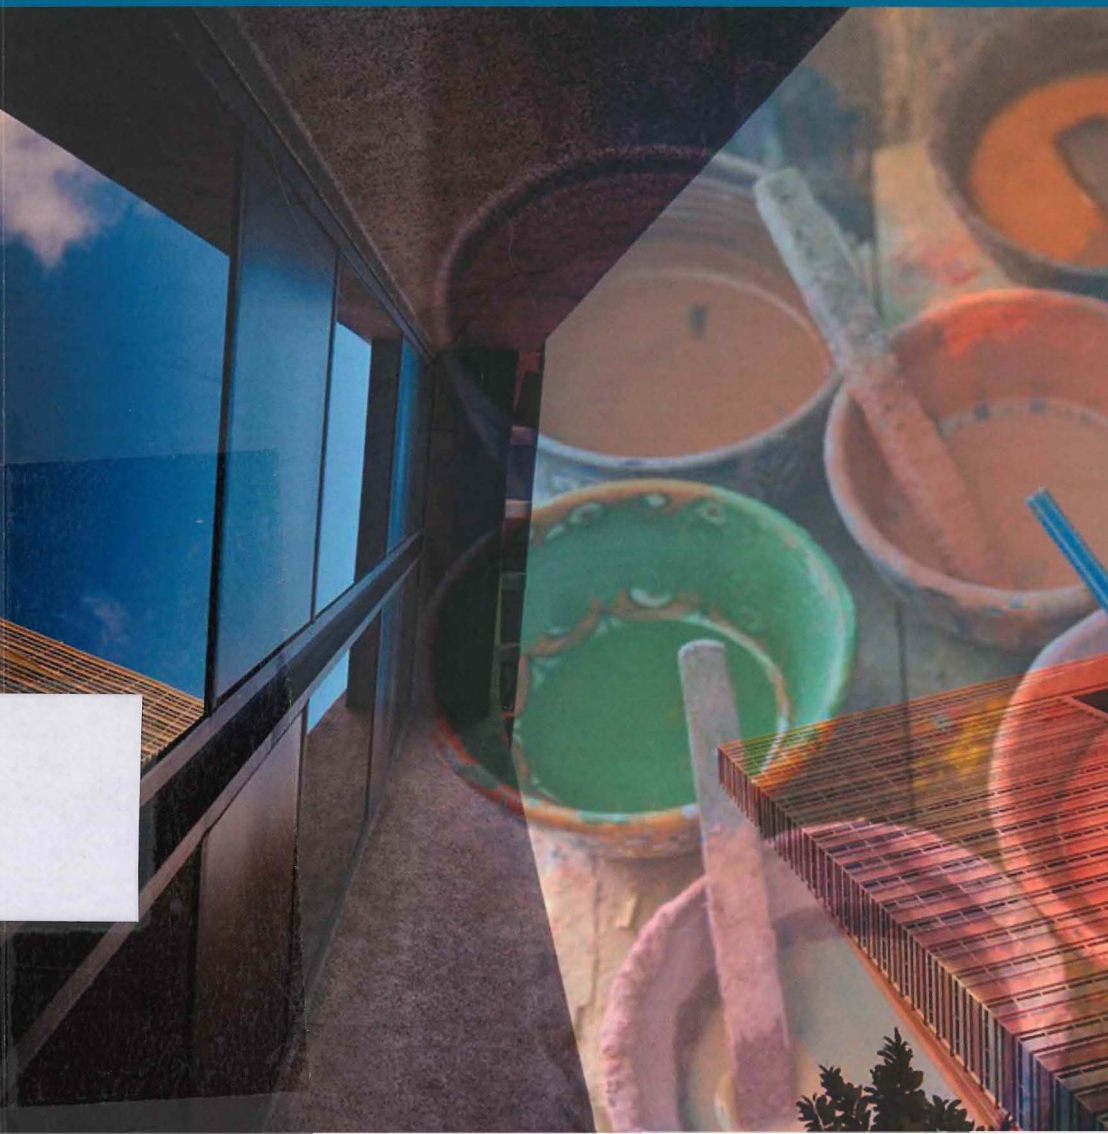
Humanizing LIS Education and Practice

Diversity by Design

Edited by Keren Dali and Nadia Caidi



สำนักหอสมุด มหาวิทยาลัยเชียงใหม่

b165 86797
0125 38644
1225 6858x

HUMANIZING LIS EDUCATION AND PRACTICE

Diversity by Design

สำนักหอสมุดมหาวิทยาลัยเชียงใหม่
CHIANG MAI UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

Edited by Keren Dali and Nadia Caidi

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group
LONDON AND NEW YORK

CONTENTS

List of figures vii
List of tables viii
List of contributors ix

Introduction: Looking beyond the "us versus them" and retrofitting 1
Keren Dali and Nadia Caidi

PART I
Diversity by Design: Evolution and applications 11

1 Diversity by Design 13
Keren Dali and Nadia Caidi

2 Can we talk? Perceptions of diversity issues by students with diverse backgrounds and a rumination on personal roads to systemic change 24
Nadia Caidi and Keren Dali

PART II
Diversity by Design in Library and Information Science education 61

3 Making the diversity, equity, and inclusion mindset indispensable in the LIS classroom through design, content, communication, and assessment 63
Kim M. Thompson and Clayton A. Copeland

4 Prioritizing diversity in Library and Information Science (LIS) education 77
Clara M. Chu and Jaya Raju

5 Designing for a diverse classroom 92
Diane Dechief

6 Overcoming interrelated challenges to "Diversity by Design" in the LIS tenure and promotion process in the American academy 105
Bharat Mehra

PART III
Diversity by Design in Library and Information Science practice 119

7 Accessible by design: Creating an equitable reading landscape 121
Laurie Davidson, Kimberly Johnson and Daniella Levy-Pinto

8 Professional development in diversity, equity, and inclusion: From add-on to "separate, but equal" to Diversity by Design 133
Norda Bell

9 Library publishing for an inclusive education 145
Reggie Raju, Jill Claassen and Lena Nyahodza

10 Academic library initiatives "for the public good:" Diversity by Design or retrofitting? 158
Sharon Farnel, Anne Carr-Wiggin, Kayla Lar-Son and Kathleen De Long

Index 171