

Contents

Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction	xiii

SECTION I WHY WE NEED COMPASSION

1. We have tricky brains	3
2. We are shaped by our experiences	16
3. Understanding our emotions	21
4. Understanding how and why our difficulties arise	45

SECTION II UNDERSTANDING COMPASSION

5. What is compassion?	69
6. The three flows of compassion	89
7. Why compassion can be difficult	94

SECTION III BUILDING CAPACITY: DEVELOPING THE FOUNDATIONS FOR OUR COMPASSIONATE MIND

8. Attention and mindfulness	101
------------------------------	-----

9. Cultivating the soothing system I – Body and breathing focus	120
10. Cultivating the soothing system II – Using imagery and memory	134
11. Building the drive system	149

SECTION IV
DEVELOPING OUR COMPASSIONATE MIND

12. Developing our compassionate self	167
13. Developing our compassionate other	184
14. Developing our compassionate team	191

SECTION V
DIRECTING OUR COMPASSIONATE MIND:
COMPASSION AS FLOW

15. Compassion for others	197
16. Experiencing compassion from others	207
17. Self-compassion	212

SECTION VI
DEVELOPING THE SKILLS OF OUR
COMPASSIONATE MIND

18. Putting our compassionate mind to work – Compassionate attention	221
19. Putting our compassionate mind to work – Compassionate thinking	231
20. Putting our compassionate mind to work – Compassionate engagement of emotion	249
21. Putting our compassionate mind to work – Compassionate behaviour	266
22. Compassionate mind – Bringing together the whole – Compassionate letter writing	291

SECTION VII
PUTTING OUR COMPASSIONATE MIND TO WORK
WITH COMMON DIFFICULTIES

23. Working with common difficulties – Understanding and bringing compassion to our multiple selves	303
24. Working with common difficulties – Bringing our compassionate mind to shame and self-criticism	322
25. Working with common difficulties – How to manage fears, blocks or resistances to compassion	342

SECTION VIII
LOOKING FORWARD: SUSTAINING OUR
COMPASSIONATE MIND

26. Looking forward – Sustaining our compassionate mind	353
Resource bank	361
Index	367