

Routledge Advances in Occupational Science and Occupational Therapy

ILLUMINATING THE DARK SIDE OF OCCUPATION

INTERNATIONAL PERSPECTIVES FROM OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY AND OCCUPATIONAL SCIENCE

Edited by
Rebecca Twinley

Contents

List of figures	x
List of tables	xi
List of boxes	xii
List of contributors	xiii
Foreword	xv
Preface	xix
Acknowledgements	xxii
1 The dark side of occupation: an introduction to the naming, creation, development, and intent of the concept	1
REBECCA TWINLEY
PART I
Theorising the dark side of occupation	15
2 The dark side of occupation: accumulating insights from occupational science	17
CLARE HOCKING
3 The dark side of occupation: a historical review of occupational therapy	26
ELIZABETH ANNE MCKAY
4 The whole of the moon: how our occupational lens helps or hinders our exploration of the dark side of occupation	35
CLAIRE HART
5 Ontological and epistemological considerations in understanding occupations in extreme and/or oppressive contexts: “doing non-violent resistance” in Palestine	48
GAIL WHITEFORD AND ALIYA HADDAD

PART II

Researching the dark side of occupation 55

6 Homelessness and occupation 57

LEONIE BOLAND, CARRIE ANNE MARSHALL, AND
LEE ANN WESTOVER

7 Occupational transition from smoker to non-smoker:
the perceived consequences in women's lives 65

KERRIE LUCK

8 Self-defeating behaviour in an individual with borderline personality disorder from an occupational perspective 74

SARAH MERCER

9 Exploring the impact of childhood sexual abuse trauma
in the context of the occupation of work 83

S. CAROLINE TAYLOR

PART III

Occupational therapy practice 93

10 Challenges for occupational therapists working with clients who choose illicit, immoral or health-compromising occupations 95

CRAIG GREBER

11 Substance use and recovery as part of daily life: a Zimbabwean perspective of substance use as an occupation among young adults living with HIV 104

CLEMENT NHUNZVI AND ROSHAN GALVAAN

12 The dark side of occupation in an eating disorder
intensive day service 114

MARY COWAN AND CLARISSA SØRLIE

13 Occupational engagement in forensic settings:
exploring the occupational experiences of men living within a forensic mental health unit 122

KAREN MORRIS

14	The development of an assessment which provides a practical application of the concept of the dark side of occupation for practitioners and students	130
	QUINN TYMINSKI
PART IV
	Occupational therapy education	139
15	Occupational therapy sounds too nice: reflections from a recently trained occupational therapist	141
	KWAKU AGYEMANG
16	The dark side of studying at university	148
	PRISCILLA ENNALS
17	How the dark side of occupation can be instructed in a course: learning from occupational therapy	156
	JULIE NASTASI
18	Not everything is rosy and not everyone wants to fix their garden: an Australian example of integrating the dark side of occupation into curriculum for final year students	163
	AMELIA DI TOMMASO
19	The value of exploring the dark side of occupation in pre-registration occupational therapy education, using homelessness as a case study	173
	MIRANDA CUNNINGHAM AND JORDAN PACE
20	The dark side of occupation: a conversation of our evolution and our future	181
	REBECCA TWINLEY, KAREN JACOBS, AND CHANNINE CLARKE
	Index	196

 Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group
www.routledge.com

Routledge titles are available as eBook editions in a range of digital formats

ID 24 1000 2154
ISBN 9780367557768

an informa business

ISBN 978-0-367-55776-8

9 780367 557768